English Language Learners

- I Notice/I Wonder Note-Catcher

Opening

A. Engage the Learner - RL. 8.1 - (5 minutes)

- One Student is chosen to read the learning target -
- “I can infer the topic of this module from the resources.”

Think-Pair-Share

1. Students move into pairs, A and B.
2. Teacher asks the question, then gives students time to think independently and silently about their answer to the question.
3. Partner A will ask partner B the question.
4. Partner B has 30 seconds to share his or her response.
5. Partners reverse roles and repeat steps 3–4.
6. Using a total participation technique (e.g., cold call, equity sticks), invite students to share their responses with the whole group.
7. Repeat this process with remaining questions.

Questions

- ☐ “Why do we have learning targets? What is the purpose of learning targets?” (To give us a goal: the goal is to be able to say “I can ...,” which means that the target has been achieved.)
- ☐ “What does infer mean? If you are going to infer the topic, what does that mean?” (When we make an inference, we make a good guess based on the evidence we have seen. Inferring the topic means making a good guess about the topic based on the content of the resources we will look at.)

Review/Share

- Share - Cold call two students to share response with the class.
- Students are encouraged to speak clearly and in complete sentences.

Best practices for sharing work in class

Sharing Our Work

When we share our work, we should:

- Use a loud and proud voice so others can hear.
- Say words clearly so others can understand them.
- Use complete sentences.
- Ask for and answer questions from classmates.

Review Learning Targets

- Repeated Routine: Follow the same routine as with the previous lessons to review learning targets and the purpose of the lesson, reminding students of any learning targets from past lessons

Vocabulary Log

Repeated Routine: Follow the same routine to focus students on the words

Vocabulary Log
myth	a popular story from the past that uses supernatural beings and events to explain a practice, belief, or natural event
traditional	passed down and unwritten; ritual
narrative	a story
modernize	to make or become new and different or suitable for the present time
folklore	the traditional beliefs, customs, and stories of a community, passed through generations by word of mouth

Work Time - A - 10 minutes

Infer the Topic

Work Time A

A collage of four images: a yellow flower, a white car, a person in a white dress, and a person in a white dress.

- Review the Learning Target relevant to the work to be completed in this section of the lesson:

- "I can infer the topic of this module from the resources."
- Infer the Topic resources will be posted around the room,
- Teacher Distributes the Infer the Topic: I Notice/I Wonder Note-Catchers.
- Students will focus on the question at the top, and read it aloud:
 - What do you think you will be learning about in this module?
- Teacher reminds students that the purpose of the Note-Catcher is to take notes to help them remember their thinking.
- There are no wrong answers, students can record in pictures or words.
- Students do not need to write in full sentences.
- For ELLs and students who require additional support, the Infer the Topic: I Notice/I Wonder Note-Catcher \(triangle\) will be used to help guide students' thinking by reducing linguistic barriers and to support vocabulary acquisition.

What do you think you will be learning about in this module?

I Notice (things I see)	I Wonder (questions I have)

- The teacher displays and distributes and reads aloud and ensures students understand the Directions for Infer the Topic.
1. Students must choose a starting resource. Take the I Notice/I Wonder Note-Catcher with them.
 2. Students Look carefully at the Resource. Being respectful to others who might be looking at the same thing.
 3. Record what they notice (what you see) and what you wonder (questions) on your Note-Catcher. (3 minutes)
 4. When instructed, students find a partner who looked at a different resource.
 5. Students Describe the resource, and share their notices and wonders. Explain what you think you are going to be learning about in this module. (2 minutes)

6. When instructed students either stay with their partner and together find another pair. Share their notices and wonders and what they think they are going to be learning about in this module. (3 minutes)
7. Students then choose a new resource, and repeat steps 1-3.
 - Teacher model filling in one noticing or wondering on the Note_Catcher and
 - Guide students through the protocol. Allows them to choose what resources to observe, so those who may not be able to read independently have the option to view an image.
 - Mixed-proficiency pairs can choose the resources they want to observe and begin by discussing what the text means.
 - Encourage students to agree or disagree with one another about what the text means using sentence frames (e.g., “I agree because _____,” “I disagree because_____”).
 - Teacher Refocus the whole group. Think-Pair-Share:
 - “Now that you have looked at some resources, what do you think this Module might be about?”
 - (Responses will vary, but could include Mexico, butterflies, a monster.)
 - “What evidence supports your inference?”
 - (Responses will vary.)

Work Time - B - 10 minutes

Introduce the Performance Task and Module Guiding Questions

Work Time B

- Tell students that they will now look at a few additional artifacts as they continue to hone their understanding of the module topic.
- Direct students' attention to the Performance Task anchor chart, and read the task aloud.
- As students may be overwhelmed by the Performance Task anchor chart, assure them that they will continue to explore the meaning of the chart in subsequent lessons and units.
- Turn and Talk:

Questions

1. “What do you notice?”

(We will get to write our own version of a Latin American story about a monster; we will get to use images for our webpage.)

2. “What do you wonder?”

(Responses will vary, but may include the following: What is relevant media? Why do Latin Americans honor a story about a monster?)

3. “Now that you have analyzed the performance task, has your inference of what this module might be about changed? How?”

(Responses will vary.)

4. “Why do we have guiding questions for each module?”

(Responses will vary, but may include the following: to help focus our learning, to help us think about the performance task.)

5. “What does the word MYTH mean? What strategy can you use to find out?”

Students work in pairs to determine the meaning of the word

6. Repeat with traditional (passed down and unwritten; ritual), narrative (a story), modernize (to make or become new and different or suitable for the present time), and folklore (the traditional beliefs, customs, and stories of a community, passed through the generations by word of mouth).

- “What do you notice?”

(Responses will vary, but may include: I notice these stories are customs, I notice that the stories can change because they are oral traditions).

“What do you wonder?”

(Responses will vary, but may include the following: Why is it that people do not write down their traditional stories? How do you decide which traditions to keep?)

“Now that you have analyzed the guiding questions and performance task, has your inference of what this module might be about changed?”

(Responses will vary.)

- Clarify that this module will be about folklore of Latin America. Help students to identify Latin America on a world map, and explain that Latin America is usually defined as the areas of America whose official languages are Spanish and Portuguese, which are languages derived from Latin: South America, Central America, Mexico, and certain islands in the Caribbean.
- Turn and Talk:

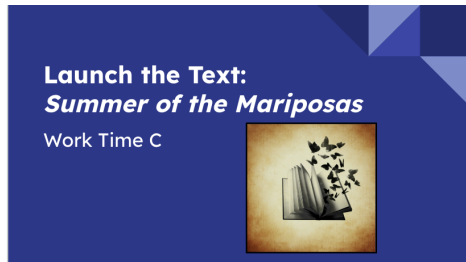

“What does this topic mean to you at this point? Why might it be meaningful to study this topic?”

(Responses will vary, but may include: “We rarely or never read books by Latin American authors, it is important to know about and celebrate all cultures, it can help people get rid of the stereotypes about Mexican people.”)

“From what you know so far, what are you looking forward to about this topic?”

(Responses will vary, but may include “learning about Latin America, learning more about folklore from my Mexican culture.”)

Work Time - C - 10 minutes

- Distribute the text Summer of the Mariposas.
- Tell students they will now spend 2 minutes looking through the book with their partner and discussing what they notice and wonder about the book, including the cover, synopsis, and chapter titles. Partner B will share a notice or a wonder first, then partner A, and then partner B again, and so on.

Some things students should notice

- ☐ The titles of each chapter are in Spanish and English.
- ☐ There are five silhouettes/shadows of girls on the cover.
- ☐ There is a definition of the word mariposa before the table of contents.
- ☐ There is a glossary of Spanish words with their English translations in the back of the book.
- ☐ The story is about a dead body.
- ☐ The story has some supernatural/ghostly elements.

“What does what you read or saw in the book make you think about? Why?”

“Knowing that reflections can be very personal, how do you think we should behave when people share their reflections?”

Closing and Assessment

A. Reflect on Learning Target - (5 minutes)

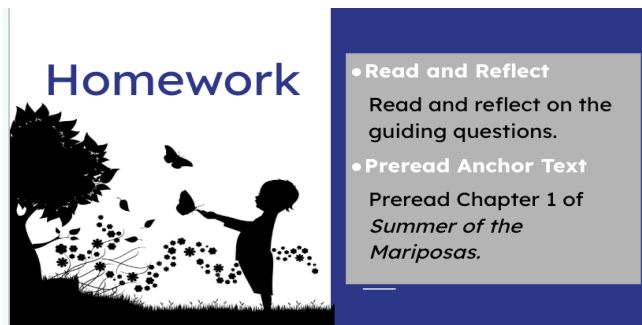

- students to reflect on their progress toward the learning target, using a checking for understanding technique—Thumb-O-Meter. Teachers scan student responses, and make a note of students who might need support.

Turn and Talk:

“What helped you to be successful at that task? How much effort did you put in on this task? How did your effort affect your learning?”

(Possible responses: I was successful at that task because I focused and worked hard. I also worked and talked with my peers, which grew my learning.)

Homework

- A. Read and Reflect: Students read and reflect on the guiding questions for the module and discuss them with their families. They will consider how the guiding questions make them feel. They can sketch or write about their ideas.
- B. Preread Anchor Text: Students preread chapter 1 of Summer of the Mariposas in preparation for studying an excerpt from the chapter in the next lesson.

Differentiation

Tier 1: Universal Supports (All Students)

1. Pair Work for Comprehension:
 - After reading the excerpt, students will review the Synopsis: Summer of the Mariposas, Chapter ? in pairs to identify key events. This encourages collaboration and peer support.
2. Sentence Fragment Analysis:
 - Introduce additional sentence fragments for all students to analyze, helping them practice sentence structure and identify common errors.
3. Visual Aids:
 - Provide graphic organizers outlining key events or characters in the chapter to help students visually map their understanding.

Tier 2: Targeted Supports (Some Students)

1. Advance Summary Distribution:
 - Distribute the Summary: Summer of the Mariposas, Chapter ? before reading. Direct students to annotate or highlight key events in the text to guide their focus.
2. Group Fragment Creation:
 - Organize small groups where students create sentence fragments for their classmates to edit. This fosters critical thinking about sentence structure.
3. Audiobook Support:
 - Provide an audiobook version for students to follow along as they read, enhancing comprehension for those who struggle with fluency.

Tier 3: Intensive Supports (Few Students)

1. Individualized Annotation Guidance:
 - Work with students individually or in very small groups to guide their annotation of key events in the summary and text, offering direct feedback and support.
2. Focused Sentence Structure Practice:
 - Provide targeted instruction on sentence structure for students who need more intensive support, using personalized examples and practice activities.
3. Increased Access to Resources:
 - Ensure that students have frequent access to the synopsis page and other resources, offering additional support as needed to reinforce understanding.

4. Teacher reads to students as they follow along.

For lighter support:

- When introducing the word infer, provide graphics and ask students to make inferences about them.
- For example, a broken window with a baseball next to it (someone threw a baseball and it shattered the glass), a dog that is covered in mud (the dog played in the mud and got dirty).
 - This conveys the concept of infer to ELLs through accessible, nonlinguistic input.

For heavier support:

- To help students during their first Turn and Talk discussion, display sentence stems that they can refer to:
 - We have learning targets so that we . . .
 - The purpose of learning targets is to help us . . .
- Alternatively, display a list of key vocabulary that students may use in their responses, including synonyms for the word target (i.e., goal, objective), and relevant verbs (i.e., reach, achieve).
 - Audiobook, for students to follow along with as they read texts to help facilitate comprehension.
 - Sora.com
 - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ruk625130LQ>
 - Students will refer to the synopsis page if they did not finish reading the excerpt or to help with understanding the gist of the chapter
 - Students will complete varying comprehension questions

Throughout Unit 2, you wrote and revised a new scene for Summer of the Mariposas in which you modernized a different monster from Latin American folklore. Throughout Unit 3, you wrote an informational essay comparing and contrasting your modernization of your monster with the original folklore. Now you are going to organize your narrative and your essay on a webpage with an explanation of how and why your chosen monster was modernized in your narrative. This webpage will then be organized on a class website about Folklore of Latin America.

Your webpage will include

- your new scene for Summer of the Mariposas,
- a comparison of your modernized monster with the original, and
- any relevant media (for example, images) you would like to include.
